God is never too busy to hear from you

Christopher Robin had a busy day and his friends didn't know where he was, which left them confused and entrapped. Our students may have had a busy month, studying the presidents, entering the stuffed pet show, proving hypothesis, but they were never too busy, confused, or entrapped. They had plenty of time to pray the Stations of the Cross, receive Ashes, get their throats Blessed, and attend Mass. Never too Busy for God!

LENT

How will you give, fast and pray this Lenten Season?

Science is Cool!

The students in grades 4-6 participated in the annual Conn-Area Catholic Science Fair during Catholic Schools' Week. The students designed and tested a hypothesis using the Scientific Method. The students did an amazing job and had fun at the same time!

HYPOTHESIS

The Lenten season is a time of prayer, fasting and offering what we have to those in need. The fourth grade children attended Mass on Ash Wednesday and created beautiful crosses as a reminder of what the season of Lent is truly about. They had the opportunity to illustrate the Stations of the Cross, thinking about and reflecting on the journey that Jesus took. They participated in the Stations of the Cross in the beautiful chapel at Geibel and wrote their own Lenten commitments. May God bless everyone on their Lenten journey.

The Presidents

If first grade is looking rather presidential these days, it's because of all the hard work they have been doing learning about the presidents. They began their learning by watching a short video about the responsibilities the president has and then writing what they would do if they were president. They also heard some unusual facts about the presidents in the book, "So You Want to Be President?" Next, they looked at presidential portraits of all the presidents up to President Ford. They absolutely loved seeing these portraits and how all the presidents looked.

The class was also able to focus a little more on George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. First, they made a booklet that did a wonderful job comparing the two presidents. Then they were also able to make a cute paper plate craft of Abraham Lincoln and a more official looking soldier paper bag craft of George Washington. They had fun making both of these crafts and it was a great way to end their learning about the presidents.
